Future of Backyard Oil Uncertain

BY BLAKE SPIRES
STAFF WRITER

Following the death of community staple and oil mogul Jimmy Reliford earlier this month, many have questioned whether the wildly successful Discovery Channel show that helped make Reliford and his co-stars nationally famous, “Backyard Oil,” would return for a second season.

Apparently, fans of the program are not the only ones still pondering the future of the show.

“You know, I haven’t heard a word on it,” fellow star and oil man Travis Coomer said Monday afternoon. “They [representatives from Red Line Films, which produces the show] were supposed to be down here around the Fourth of July, but that fell through.”

With Reliford’s passing, Coomer says a second season is even more up-in-the air.

“We hadn’t heard anything for sure, and now that Jimmy’s gone, we’re all still just waiting to hear what they plan to do. I talked to some of the film crew, and they’re all filming something else right now.”

Both Red Line Films and Discovery Channel were unable to be reached for comment on plans for the show.

Local First Responders Train For School Crisis

BY WES FEESE
EDITOR

Members of the Columbia Police Dept., Adair County Sheriff’s Dept., the Columbia-Adair County Fire Dept., and the Columbia-Adair County EMS took part in a three-day training program last week at the building formerly known as John Adair Intermediate School. Sponsored by the U.S. Civil Corps, the tutorial served to educate Adair County’s first responders on tactics and protocol in case of a disaster such as a school shooting.

“This is one of those situations we hope we’ll never have to fully benefit from, but we live in a world of uncertainties,” says Adair County Superintendent Alan Reed. “In the event that something horrible ever happen on our campus, we really depend on our first responders to protect our students.”

Last Thursday and Friday, law enforcement and medical personnel went through drills, did classroom work, and studied various situations that they might find themselves in in case of emergency. Saturday, all that recently gained knowledge was put to use as several simulations were held at the school, with first responders working the scene as if it were a real crisis.

“This is really unique because we’ve never been able to supply a training environment like this,” Reed says.

With John Adair slated for demolition later this year, the empty building provided a realistic site for a crisis simulation, complete with open and closed doors, classrooms, offices, and hallways.

Volunteers from the community were brought in to participate Saturday. Some were ‘victims’ with medical needs, others were

Four Arrested For Robbery At Lee’s

BY WES FEESE
EDITOR

The Columbia Police Dept. has arrested four Adair County residents in connection with the June robbery of Lee’s Famous Recipe.

After a seven-week investigation by CPD Det. Tracy McCarol, the Grand Jury returned the four indictments last week.

Arrested were Robert “Deo” Woolridge, 26; Shaniqua Woolridge, 22; Shanna Skaggs, 26; and Keirra Maston, 20; all from Columbia.

The investigation started slowly, but McCarol says the CPD followed every possible lead to determine the conspirators, and their efforts eventually paid off.

Hospital Announces Continued Improvements

At their regularly scheduled monthly meeting on Tuesday night, the newly-named Adair County Hospital District gathered to update the public on their proceedings, discuss upcoming financial and management decisions and welcome the Adanta Behavioral Health Unit to their renewed partnership.

Adanta/Westlake Behavioral Unit CEO Jamie Burton, Clinical Director Beverly Loy and Assistant Clinical Director Patti Paige were in attendance for the announcement, with Westlake Vice-Chairman Neal Gold calling Loy “the driving force” behind the re-upped partnership.

School Board Votes To Raise Property Tax

BY WES FEESE
EDITOR

The Adair County School Board and Superintendent Alan Reed met Thursday and voted to raise county property taxes by two cents for every $100 of assessed property value. The increase moves the school tax to 50.1 cents, two cents higher than the compensating rate, or the minimum rate allowed by law.

There were two meetings scheduled Thursday, but the first – an open hearing for the public to express their opinions about the tax – didn’t draw any citizens to comment on the matter, so the gathering was adjourned and the Board took up the issue at the second meeting, their regular meeting for August.

The proposal facing the Board was a two-cent tax increase that would potentially bring in an additional $190,000 for the school district (to go into the General Fund). Board member Joe Payne was the first to comment on the tax hike, explaining his personal support for the increase as well as his constituents’ opposition to it.

“My constituents want me to vote against this tax, but I don’t think they understand the big picture,” Payne said, adding that the increase will cost the typical Adair County family only $10 more per year.

Payne also said that the people he represents are fearful that a big portion of the additional revenue would go to a raise for one individual. This comment was a clear reference to July’s School Board meeting, when Mike Harris proposed a $17,000 raise for Superintendent Alan Reed.

Board member Floyd Burton chimed into the conversation, saying that if the tax didn’t pass the district could be looking at cutting more teachers.

Eventually, Mike Harris moved that the new, higher tax be accepted, and Greg Willis seconded Harris’ motion. Floyd

Editorial Commentary

Wes Feese, EDITOR

I’m here to talk about sports this week. I know, I know – we have a sportswriter for that and he does a fine job, so forgive me if I step on Blake Spires’ toes this week and cram even more sports-talk into this paper.

Specifically though, I’m here to talk about football. Adair County High School Football. The Tribe kicks off its season Friday night at Caverna, and I couldn’t be more excited, so I want everyone else to be excited too. Supporting Adair County’s sports teams has been a hobby of mine since way before I played anything at ACHS, and has continued to be in the seven, eight... however many years it’s been since I graduated. Since we no longer have soccer in our school system (moment of silence please) all of my high school fall-sports energy is focused on football.

This season’s squad features a rarity for Adair County on the gridiron: a big, experienced, talented line, on both offense and defense. We have seen our share of talented skill-position players here recently, and the cupboard is not completely bare in that regard, with quarterback Jake Hixson as the most notable returner, but I can’t remember an Adair County team whose strength was in the trenches. I’ve had people tell me that Adair County had a huge O-line sometime in the early to mid 1990s, but I honestly don’t remember much about those teams, so to me this team has the best chance to create dump-truck sized running lanes of any Indian team I’ve seen.

Last year, when I was still this paper’s sportswriter, I got to follow the Indians more closely than I had since high school, and I was shocked by how much I enjoyed it. Adair County football – which has never had the tradition or the community support that the basketball team has always garnered – had been in a rut for a few years and had little excitement around the program. That changed last season, when Head Coach Travis Gay guided his team to a winning record and an appearance in the playoffs. Of course, they were eliminated handily in the first round, but there’s plenty of momentum left to build on.

Adair County hit the proverbial glass ceiling last year with six wins, tying the 2004 edition of the Tribe for the second-best season in the last 15 years (the 2003 team won seven games). With only three winning seasons since 1998, consistent success might not be expected, but its definitely possible. It’s been nearly a decade since Adair has had back-to-back winnings seasons, but I expect that trend to change this year.

I’m here to tell you, if this year’s team can parlay last year’s success into a just-as-good or better season this year, it will be well worth the $5 admission to come out to some games this year. After Friday’s tilt at Caverna, the Tribe will be at home for three straight weeks, with matchups against Breckenridge County, Metcalfe County, and Monroe County on Sept. 6, 13, and 20 respectively.

This year’s group, much like the heralded Adair Band (which is also outstanding once again this year, judging from their stellar performance at Mark Twain), puts hours of work in every day for something that they simply love to do. A few might get a college scholarship out of it someday, but most of them are playing because they love football, and that dedication deserves recognition and community support.

I hope and expect the Indians to be 1-0 next Friday when they take the field for their first home game against Breckenridge, and I hope the stands are full when the boys run through the tunnel.

Alcohol Sales In Adair County

Legally, Adair County has been a dry county for many, many years, but this has not always been so. Until the turn of the last century, alcohol was a common commodity in this county as well as just about every other in the state.

In 1893 a local option election was slated to take place on the 2nd of October. However, on November 8th, the county court declared that the election had not been carried out because “...it appearing that said election would be illegal and void if held at that time.”

In 1896 the matter was again brought up. Petitions asked for an election to be held on July 11th in all the county precincts “...upon the proposition as to whether or not spirituous, vinous or malt liquors should be sold, bartered or loaned in said precinct(s)...

According to law, the supporters of prohibition had to collect signatures of supporters in every precinct. At least twenty-five percent of the voters, those who has been eligible to vote in the last election, had to sign the circulating petition for their precinct.

These petitions were all returned to the proper authorities and all contained a sizeable number of signatures, according to existing record, above the percentage needed. The election was ordered.

A committee of citizens, from all across the county, filed a paper with the County Court complaining of the election. They were concerned, because of the passage of an ordinance, if not overturned, would limit the sale of alcoholic-type items, some of which were sold by druggists.

The election of July 11, 1896 was held and the outcome was: 1,203 in favor of prohibition, 843 votes against.

The aforementioned committee of citizens contested the election and the result can be found in Adair County Court Order Book Q. Junius Hancock was the presiding judge on a board to settle the issue of the legality of the election. He was assisted by John Eubank and Melvin Cave, two Justices of the Peace who lived closest to Columbia.

The decision was that the election was not legal. The county court did not have the authority or jurisdiction to order the election that was held on July 11th, the petitions asking for said election had not been received by the County Judge, but by a Justice of the Peace. Also, because the election had not been properly advertised.

A second election was held on October 4th, 1898 on the question. This time, it was made clear that druggists were to be included in the ranks of those to be deprived of the right to sell alcohol and alcohol-type products. The vote this time was: 847 for prohibition, 484 against.

So, it seems the first election was actually better advertised than originally thought, or enthusiasm had waned over the two year span before the next election since the total vote, though not effecting the outcome, shrank from 2,046 to 1,331, or 715 votes...

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

THANK YOU

Dear Editor,
Every third year, the Adair County Extension Homemakers park cars at the Extension Office during the Adair County Fair. Many thanks to Tony Rose and Nick Roy for their advice and help in roping off the parking lot for the 2013 Fair. We parked almost 500 cars during this year’s Fair. Many, many thanks to all those who helped park the cars and BIG TRUCKS, and to the patient and cooperative drivers who paid careful attention to Agent Kelli Bonifer’s directional waves and her requests to “Back into your slot!”

On Sunday, as we tore down the tape around the parking lot, we were hard pressed to find any garbage or junk to clean up. Thanks to all those who parked with us, and left practically no sign of litter! Way to go, Adair County.

Relief For Kentucky Homeowners
Tops $63 Million Under National Mortgage Settlement

Kentucky Attorney General Jack Conway today announced that the nation’s five largest mortgage servicers continue to provide direct relief to homeowners in Kentucky and across the country as part of the historic national mortgage foreclosure settlement. According to the fifth and final post-settlement report released today by the independent settlement monitor, 1,833 Kentucky homeowners received more than $63.7 million in settlement-related relief from Ally/GMAC, Bank of America, Citi, Chase and Wells Fargo through June 30, 2013. Borrowers each received an average of $34,771 in assistance.

The report compiles information provided by the servicers and has yet to be verified by the compliance monitor.

The various forms of relief provided to Kentucky borrowers included 178 completed first lien modifications, 576 completed second lien terminations, 436 short sales and 296 completed refinances.

“This settlement provided real relief to hundreds of Kentucky families, who otherwise may have lost their homes.” General Conway said. “I am proud that the total settlement relief provided to Kentuckians has exceeded our original estimate. The Office of the Attorney General has received some complaints from consumers that servicers are not meeting their obligations under the settlement. There are currently ongoing discussions with other Attorneys General about the best way to resolve these complaints to ensure that consumers receive assistance and that banks are upholding the servicing terms outlined in the settlement.”

Nationally, the report found that more than 642,000 borrowers received some type of consumer relief during the same period totaling $51.18 billion. On average, each borrower received $79,704 in relief.

Mortgage Settlement History

Forty nine state attorneys general reached the historic $25 billion settlement with five of the nation’s largest banks in February of 2012. Kentucky received $58 million under the settlement. Thirty-eight million dollars is being allocated by the settlement administrator to consumers who qualify for refinancing, loan write downs, debt restructuring and/or cash payments of up to $2,000. Kentucky also received $19.2 million in settlement money that was allocated to agencies in the Commonwealth that create affordable housing, provide relief or legal assistance to homeowners facing foreclosure, redevelop foreclosed properties and reduce blight created by vacant properties.

In addition to participating in the national mortgage settlement, General Conway filed suit in January 2013 against the Mortgage Electronic Registration Systems, Inc. (MERS) for violating Kentucky’s recording statutes by not recording mortgage assignments with County Clerks when mortgages were sold or transferred from one bank to another. Additionally, the lawsuit alleges that since MERS’ creation in 1995, members have avoided paying more than $2 billion in recording fees nationwide. Additional information about the MERS lawsuit is available at migration.kentucky.gov/Newsroom/ag/merscomplaint.htm.

said of the partnership.

Gold said he is hopeful that the unit will be open and operational in Columbia next week, but admits such a lofty goal will be a big challenge.

Following the announcement, Monica Thomas presented the hospital’s core measures, a chart that organizes collected data on patient satisfaction and presents Westlake’s results against both state and national averages. Impressively, Westlake ranked substantially above both means in patient satisfaction, with areas like doctor and nurse communication, pain control, cleanliness and home recovery ranking as the best in the entire state. Months ago, the Board set a goal of a 90% cumulative score in these areas, and Thomas’ report indicated a 95.9% average, far exceeding that benchmark.

“We’re number one in every single one of these,” Thomas said, referring to the front page of the data packet. Full statistics and information are available at <http://www.medicare.gov/HospitalCompare>.

From there, the statistical presentations turned financial. Westlake CFO David Hayes presented his monthly report, prefacing the numbers with a warning.

“The picture is not very rosy,” Hayes said of the overall operating year from last July to the current time. Hayes explained that the hospital is still operating in the red with regards to total yearly revenue, and that average length of stay has increased by 1.4 days, a number that must be lowered since the majority of patients do not pay a per diem fee, instead owing one flat fee, regardless of the length of stay.

Despite the overall negative numbers, Hayes said the trend is very positive. After an operating debt of $3.1 million in 2012, the current administration has whittled the financial operation burden to just $669,512 as of July.

“Pat yourselves on the back,” Hayes told the Board. “That’s a big improvement. Even though we have a long way to go and a long road ahead, that’s a big improvement.”

Following Hayes’ report, Gold made a recommendation to the Board to open a bank account for a 340B program. The program, Gold explained, is essentially a fund of money designated solely to replenish the medicine sold by partnering pharmacies. According to the discussion, the hospital is able to purchase these pharmaceutical drugs at a discount cost and provide them to the pharmacies that sell them at retail prices. The pharmacies then return the surplus profit to the hospital, a move that was at one point returning over $17,000 per month. With last month’s Chapter 9 filing, local pharmacies want physical reassurance that Westlake will continue to provide the replenishing. Gold’s motion passed, though the board was careful to note that the move, like all others at this point, is contingent on court approval.

Gold continued, providing his monthly administrative report.

He began with a reminder about the full health fair, beginning October 9, with blood screening provided for $12. He then provided an update on the status of the moving of the Edmonton clinic to its new building, which he says is looking to be complete this week. Gold also noted that he is in continued negotiations with a gynecologist and family doctor.

Overall, he said, Hayes’ report of an upward trend is an accurate one.

“Chapter Nine has significantly improved our cash position,” Gold began. “We actually have money in the bank. We just paid payroll, and we have at least two more payrolls left in the bank. We’re also current on all bills.”

“It’s quite a change from a year ago,” Gold said, referring to the meeting’s signaling of the one year anniversary of Chairman Craig Pyles and Richard Grant joining the Board.

“We’re still here,” Pyles said of the anniversary. “We’re still going.”

•Lee's Robbery Arrest

"At first we had a white vehicle that might have been involved, so we had to find that car and then ruled it out," McCarol explained Tuesday. "Then we got some anonymous information, showed some lineups to the victim, and it started to come together. We just kept digging and following leads."

Deo Woolridge was charged with robbery – first degree, possession of a firearm by a convicted felon, and being a persistent felony offender – first degree.

Shaniqua Woolridge, Keirra Maston, and Shanna Skaggs were all charged with one count each of complicity to commit robbery – first degree.

On June 26, 2013 Deo Woolridge allegedly entered Lee's through an unlocked back door, confronting employees as they were closing the store. He then presented a handgun and demanded cash, before fleeing on foot with almost $1,500 cash.

Columbia Police Ofc. Johnny Dial and the Campbellville Police Dept. assisted McCarol in serving the indictment warrants.

From The Fields...

Corn silage harvest was well underway last week as April planted corn was reaching proper moisture levels for fermentation. Reported yields were well above average with very good ear development. Samples sent to forage labs for testing of nutritional value revealed very high quality. Most samples tested 75 to 78% TDN (energy) compared to 70 to 74% in average years. For drastic comparison, last year’s heat resulted in bare ears with corn silage testing around 65% TDN. This year’s high energy corn silage crop will allow for higher levels of animal performance, lowered feed costs, and improved profitability. It will be important that rations are re-formulated to take into account the higher energy levels. Failing to do so may result in acidosis in and wasted money on unnecessary feed ingredients.

UK Grain Crops specialist Dr. Chad Lee was in Adair County last week to speak at the annual grain crops field day. Dr. Lee advised grain producers to be prepared for a late, wet harvest. Cooler than normal temperatures this summer has delayed corn development which is resulting in corn maturity at a later date. As corn maturity is delayed into September, corn will air dry in the field at a much slower rate. Downed corn may also become an issue as many corn fields will have to be left standing for longer periods for the kernels to dry down enough to harvest. Double crop soybeans have also been affected by the cooler temperatures and delayed planting due to heavy rains in early July. Dr. Lee stated that nitrogen fertilizer and foliar fertilizers would not speed up the soybean crop maturity nor result in higher yields. Nitrogen fertilizer on well nodulated soybeans would only increase crop height which does not imply higher yields in soybeans. In cases where soybeans were not nodulated, an application of 200 lbs. nitrogen/acre would be needed the meet the crop’s nitrogen requirement for a 50 bushel yield.

Cocklebur continues to be a troublesome weed in many pasture fields this summer. Ideal timing for herbicide applications are May through July. As an annual species, cocklebur can only reproduce through seed. At this point in the season, farmers may best be served by bushogging cocklebur to reduce top growth and seed production. Hopefully this will be the final pass needed across pastures as frost will likely occur before the next seed crop is produced.

Deadline for CAIP Applications is Friday, August 30th

Deadline for applications for the 2013 Adair County CAIP program is Friday n August 30, 2013 at the Adair County Extension Office located at 409 Fairground Street in Columbia. The Kentucky Agricultural Development Board recently approved $203,000 in Agricultural Development Funds for the 2013 Adair County CAIP program (County Agricultural Investment Program) to be administered by the Adair County Cattlemen’s Association. This program is a 50% cost-share program with a maximum funding of $1,500 per farm operation. CAIP is designed to provide farmers with incentives to allow them to improve and diversify their current production practices. For information contact the Adair County Extension Office at 270-384-2317 or stop by 409 Fairground Street in Columbia.

Indian Golf Continues Winning Ways

The Adair County Indian Golf Team looked to remain unbeaten in match play as the Glasgow Scotties ventured into The Pines last Tuesday afternoon. Despite being in the familiar confines of their home course, the Indians did not post their best rounds, but did shoot well enough to best Glasgow 160 to 166.

Riley Grant again shot the low round for Adair, posting a 37. Daniel Rarey and Austin Cundiff also shot 40-and-under, with rounds of 39 and 40, respectively. Tanner Garmon and Blake Maupin each shot a 44 to round out the scoring for the Indians.

The Junior Varsity also emerged victorious, obliterating Glasgow 181 to 245. Korey Hundley shot an impressive 42, while Joseph Farmer and senior Jacob Keltner each posted rounds of 46. Jameson Miller’s 47 was joined by a 48 from Bryce Farris and Tanner Janes shot a 56 for the convincing win.

“Today wasn’t a great day for us by any means,” Coach Lewis said. “If this is what we shoot on an off-day though, that’s pretty good. We’re getting better each and every day.”

TRIBE STAYS UNBEATEN AT DALE HOLLOW

After Tuesday’s victory, the Indians traveled to Dale Hollow to take on Clinton County. Despite the difficult course, both ACHS squads played solid golf, sweeping Clinton and remaining undefeated. The varsity team defeated the Bulldogs 159 to 167, while the JV shot a very impressive 171 for a 29-stroke victory. The varsity squad now stands at 7-0, while JV is also flawless at 6-0.

Riley Grant shot another 37 to lead the way for the Indians, and Austin Cundiff again broke 40 with his round of 39. Senior Daniel Rarey shot a 41, Korey Hundley posted a 42 and Tanner Garmon shot a 43 to complete the steady team performance.

The JV was equally impressive, shooting scores that would have nearly beaten Clinton County’s varsity squad, all on a course many of the young Indians had never played. Jameson Miller, Jacob Keltner and Blake Maupin each shot a 42, Zach Pyles shot a 45, and Joseph Farmer finished his round with a 48. Bryce Farris and Tanner Janes finished up for Adair with scores of 58 and 60, respectively.

“This is a difficult course,” Coach Chris Lewis said. “A lot of our junior varsity guys had never played here before, so I was really pleased with how well they did.”

“We have so much talent on this team,” he continued excitedly. “We just had nine guys shoot a 45 or better on one of the hardest courses around.

It’s still early, but we’re getting there.”

INDIAN GOLF WINS AGAIN AT ROSEWOOD

In their third match of the week, the Indians traveled to Rosewood Country Club to take on the Marion County Knights. Although the Tribe turned in another less-than-stellar performance, their overall talent shone through, returning home with their undefeated record intact.

The Varsity squad topped Marion 161-173, and was led by Riley Grant’s round of 38. Although Grant was the only Indian under 40, Austin Cundiff shot an even 40, and Daniel Rarey and Korey Hundley just missed that mark, shooting 41 and 42, respectively. Tanner Garmon rounded out the Adair round with a solid 46.

“We honestly didn’t play as well as I would have liked,” Coach Lewis said following the match. “We still won, but at this point I’m more focused on overall score. If we want to make it back to state, a score like this has to be better.”

Lady Indian Golf Blasts Cumberland

After their promising opening week of play, the ACHS Lady Indian Golf squad hosted Cumberland County for a nine-hole match on the back nine at The Pines last Tuesday. The Lady Indians dominated the contest, shooting a team score of 208, topping Cumberland’s 262 by a scorching 54 strokes.

All four Lady Indians posted impressive individual scores en route to the victory. Senior Rachel Phipps led the way with a round of 49. Eighth grader Hailey Taylor continued her impressive early season play by shooting a 50, fellow eighth grader Lauren McQuaide posted a 53, and sophomore Madison Bell shot a season low 56.

“Our team score keeps decreasing, and that’s the way it should be,” Coach Natalie Sneed said following the victory. “We’re improving every day, and I’m so proud of these girls. I look forward to seeing what the rest of the season has in store for us.”

THE

with Blake Spires

Give me just a few hundred words to be excited. After the long, mundane, nearly impossible to write about Dog Days of Summer, we’re fast approaching what I consider the start of the sporting year.

I know, it’s nearly September, and these days we’re basically celebrating the start of the Christmas season earlier than that, but it’s true. College football kicks off this week, the NFL follows suit soon after and college basketball and the NBA will be tipping off in October. NASCAR is approaching its home stretch of the schedule as the Race for the Chase draws closer, and MLB is seeing divisional races tighten up as teams jockey for playoff position.

Whatever your sports love, this is essentially the time to be excited for it. In fact, there are officially zero weekends between now and April that won’t have either college basketball or football to watch, and the NBA Finals will extend into mid-June. I know, I know. Take a few minutes to do your little jig and then come back for this next paragraph.

What a sports year it’s going to be. Kentucky football opens the Mark Stoops era on Saturday in Nashville against Western Kentucky, and while rational fans don’t expect a stellar year this early in the rebuilding process, the simple thought of a new scheme, direction and excitement for the program is something Cats fans have pined for my entire lifetime (and well beyond).

On a national scale, this is the final year of the BCS deciding the National Champion, as next season begins the four-team playoff. Can Alabama three-peat, making it four titles in five years? Can the SEC make it a ridiculous eight-in-a-row stretch of titles? Can Urban Meyer and his loaded Ohio State squad steal the throne? Can media lightning rod Johnny Manziel lead SEC newcomer Texas A&M to the Promised Land? As far as dominant teams, legendary coaches and overall star power, this is as good a college football season as we’ve seen in a long time—at least before it actually starts.

At the NFL level, the storylines are nearly as intriguing. How will the second-year QBs from last year’s historic rookie class fare? Is Andrew Luck the next Peyton Manning? Is RGIII healthy and will he continue to revolutionize the QB position? Will Russell Wilson continue to be a stud with far less media attention than the other two, and can he take the Seahawks to the Super Bowl? Speaking of Super Bowl, how will the new-look defending champion Ravens look with franchise faces like Ray Lewis and Ed Reed no longer in town? Will Kaepernick and the 49ers return to the Big Game? How will Tom Brady and the Patriots fare with so many offensive weapons gone? Can Peyton Manning bring the Broncos a title? Will Adrian Peterson break the rushing record?

You’ll have to excuse all the questions, but these are all legitimate things to watch for, and all right off the top of my head. All that, plus the aspect of managing your fantasy team (I haven’t forgotten, there are articles coming on that) and talking trash with your friends while having something to look forward to about Monday nights—it’s just a week away.

I’ll just briefly touch on the basketball aspect, because that will be another full article by itself as both Kentucky and Louisville expect to send title contenders on the court and phenoms like Andrew Wiggins and Aaron Gordon enter the college basketball scene. The NBA will see the Heat try to three-peat with LeBron and company as he chases the title of GOAT, the revamped Brooklyn Nets and their veteran offseason acquisitions, the Dwight Howard/James Harden combo in Houston and the ongoing circus that my Lakers have become.

None of that even mentions the local high school sports that are set to kick off this Friday night with Adair County Football taking on Caverna. Barely two weeks ago I had multiple conversations with multiple people about how dreary and slow the sports scene was. But as they (whoever they are) say, it’s always the darkest before dawn, and the sun is rising on the most promising and exciting time of the year for those of us obsessed with keeping score.

Now, if you’ll excuse me, I have a jig to dance around my desk. Go Indians, Go Cats, Go Sports.

No. 1 LWC Women’s Soccer Shuts Out No. 21 Davenport In Season Opener

Two second-half goals helped seal the win for the Blue Raiders

Only five minutes into the 2013 season, the Blue Raiders took the lead and never looked back against No. 21 Davenport (Mich.) University.

Natasha Gensetter scored the first goal of the season for Lindsey Wilson (1-0) after a loose ball in the box found its way to her. After a quick scramble, Gensetter found the back of the net and gave the Blue Raiders a 1-0 lead.

Opportunities became scarce after that with Lindsey Wilson posting the only other shot of the first half in the 12th minute.

The Blue Raiders got a little help to begin the second half when a cross was sent into the box and bounced of a Davenport (1-1) defender and into the net giving the Blue Raiders a 2-0 lead.

The final goal of the game came in the 73rd minute when Carola Schneider fed Bettina Bruehlhart inside the box and pushed the lead to 3-0.

Schneider received a pass from the right flank and tapped the ball over to Bruehlhart to avoid the Davenport goalkeeper Michelle Marcus.

Marcus finished the game allowing three goals while recording three saves. Lindsey Wilson goalkeeper Johanna Henriksen recorded the shutout while stopping the only shot she faced.

The Blue Raiders held a 5-1 shot advantage over the Panthers as well as a 6-2 corner kick advantage.

Lindsey Wilson returns to action at 7 p.m. CT on Saturday, Aug. 31, as the Blue Raiders travel to No. 3 Spring Arbor (Mich.) University.

Burton voted with Harris and Willis to create a majority, but Payne and the Board’s fifth member – Quinn Lasley – both voted against the tax, which passed 3-2.

Harris was clearly surprised at Payne’s dissention, telling Payne that he thought by his comments he was on board with the tax.

“Personally, I am,” Payne responded. “I’m voting on behalf of my constituents.”

Harris commented that he thought Payne would vote in the best interests of the students, which led to a brief moment of contention, and Payne firing back, “It passed didn’t it?”

In other business at Thursday’s meeting the Board:

- Heard the Superintendent’s Report from Alan Reed.

Reed said that the start of this school year has been “one of the smoothest starts to a school year we’ve ever had.”

He went on to thank teachers and staff for working around-the-clock in the lead-up to opening day, and praised their efforts to make the start of school easy for students.

Reed also announced the hire of Steve Burton, who was in attendance at the meeting, as the new principal at Adair County Elementary School.

“They made a great choice,” Reed said of the Site Base Council’s hire.

Reed also announced that early release Fridays will kick off Sept. 6.

“For years teachers have needed that time to work together,” Reed said. “It’s 100-percent academic. It’s not discussion time about anything else but student progress.”

- Recognized Branscum Construction’s Sandra Honaker and Terry Loy for their efforts in completing the new Adair County Primary Center in barely a year.

“Usually we don’t do this for vendors because they get paid to do a job,” Superintendent Reed said. He went on to explain that they completed an 18-month job in just over a year, and thanked them for their efforts to complete the school in time for opening day. Both Honaker, the project’s manager, and Loy, the job’s superintendent, were presented plaques for their service.

- Recognized high school student Sarah McQuaide for her initiative in finding use for surplus library books following the consolidation of schools. McQuaide sent a letter to Superintendent Reed suggesting that the books be given to charity, where they can continue to teach and inspire young readers.

“We appreciate you finding another use for what could have went in the garbage,” Reed said to McQuaide.

- Recognized the Transportation Dept. for being named the top transportation dept. in the Commonwealth.

Superintendent Reed praised the department for going above and beyond to serve Adair County’s students, and presented a plaque to Transportation Director David Jones.

After Reed’s presentation, Jones recognized his department’s staff, handing out certificates to those in attendance for the meeting. Jones then thanked Reed and Board for their support, and Season Exhibition again on Saturday.

The usual capacity crowd filled the Adair County High School football stadium beginning around 3:30pm for a night filled with performances from bands of various sizes from throughout the state. Of course, the prestige and success of the event has long hinged on its association with the wildly successful ACHS band. Under the direction of Mr. Tom Case, the Adair band took the field at around 8:15pm, debuting part of their 2013 “Walk This Way” show.

Even as the public debut of the show, the Adair performance was what Mr. Case was looking for.

“It’s a performance I was pleased with,” Case said of the Mark Twain show. “The judges loved the ideas we put forth, and we looked good.”

Of course, as with any pre-season exhibition, there are improvements to make and things to fine tune. Case, however, says he isn’t worried.

“We’re a young band,” he said. “Our youth was obvious out there, but we really have great leadership from our seniors and that showed Saturday. We’ll never use youth as an excuse, we’re accountable top-to-bottom and the younger members really stepped up well. The effort of these young people so far has just been amazing.”

In fact, Case was ecstatic about the event as a whole, which ran incredibly well for such a large show.

“The whole day went really smooth,” he added. “Everything was well-organized and on-time, and that’s all a credit to our wonderful boosters and all the support we receive from our administration. So many people worked hard to make it all happen.”

With the pre-season exhibition behind them, the Adair band turns its eyes toward the season opening competition on Sept. 14 at Glasgow High School. In the meantime, Case and the Adair band are focused on putting more of the show on the field, and getting as much practice and performance repetition as possible.

“We hope to get three-fourths of the show on the field by the opening competition,” Case said. “Hopefully we’ll have the entire show ready by the end of September.”

Field Commander Ashley Simpson orchestrated an impressive debut for the 2013 edition of Adair Band Saturday night at the Mark Twain Exhibition.

Adair County made good use of their props Saturday at the Mark Twain Exhibition, impressing judges with their creative and visually pleasing show.

The Adair Band’s color guard performed with uncommon synchronization Saturday night at the band’s debut performance at the Mark Twain Exhibition.

The Lindsey Wilson College marching band, under the leadership of former Adair Band director Tim Allen, put on quite a show for the crowd Saturday night to formally wrap up the 2013 Mark Twain Exhibition.

Welcome to Chamber Insights – August 2012

The monthly newsletter of the Columbia-Adair County Chamber of Commerce

Editor & Executive Director: Sue Stivers
President’s Message: Roger Meadows
Feature Writer: J. Brandon Thompson

The Purpose of the Columbia-Adair County Chamber of Commerce is to promote and enhance the Business, Cultural, Educational and Civic Well Being of Columbia and Adair County.

President’s Message

By: Roger Meadows

Columbia Adair County Chamber of Commerce and Lindsey Wilson College held their annual Wares Fair at the Holloway Health and Wellness Center on August 23rd. The Wares Fair started 6 years ago as a way for Columbia Adair county businesses to show incoming Lindsey Wilson students what their business had to offer. This year, Lindsey Wilson will have approximately 1,100 students in residence halls with total enrollment expected to exceed 2,700.

College students are everything a business is looking for in a new customer: they are just starting out, a number of them are new to our area, and they have great future buying potential. The idea for your business is to reach these students better and quicker than your competitors.

There were 50 businesses represented this year, up from approximately 40 we had last year. As I walked around talking with businesses, those that were there for the first time were extremely pleased with the turn-out and questioned themselves as to why they had chosen to pass on this event in prior years. Those returning indicated this was an event they wouldn’t pass up; it is their opportunity to get in front of all these potential new customers.

We would like to thank all the businesses that were able to attend this year and are looking forward to an even bigger turnout next year.

Looking Ahead

Picnic In The Park
Hosted by Bank of Columbia
Tuesday, September 17, 2013
Annual Chamber Picnic – Tuesday, September 17, 6:30 PM at the Chamber Roadside Park on Hwy. 55 South.

Corporate Sponsor will be the Bank of Columbia. The meal will be prepared by the Bank of Columbia. Meal reservations are to be made at the Chamber office, 201 Burkesville Street in Columbia not later than NOON Friday, Sept. 16. Cost: $5.00 per person. The money will be donated to the Roadside Park fund to help with expenses at the park.

Businesses are asked to donate a wreath (any season of the year) for the auction. Funds from the sale of the wreaths will be given to the Chamber to help with necessary expenses. Chamber members and family members are encouraged to attend and bid on the wreaths.

What Makes September Special?

The month of September is just around the corner. It’s a special time of the year to celebrate many activities and events such as Labor Day, Grandparents Day, Patriot Day, and the College football season. Look for activities that parents, children, grandparents and grand children can do together, such as walks, hikes, roadside park offerings, swimming, horseback riding, kite flying, bike riding, attending Lindsey Wilson College football games and cheering the Blue Raiders to Victory...anything you can do together and have fun doing it.

September blooms such as Goldenrod, Evening Primrose and Iron Weed make this month a great time to plan trail hikes and wildflower walks.

Take the family and attend some of the local events including:

September 2 – Buy, Swap, Sell and Trade Day to be held on the Public Square and the City Yard Sales (look for signs)

September 2 – Antique Car Show at the Adair County Fairgrounds

September 7 – Annual Fall Heritage Festival, at the Homeplace on Green River (no charge for entry) There is a nominal charge for some of the activities and for food available from vendors.

September 17-23 – Constitution Week – visit the Adair County Public Library...observe the display...check out a book...read and talk about the Constitution of the United States.

Editorials

of the Month

By: Sue C. Stivers, Executive Director

There is seldom a week that goes by that people asks my opinion on this question...What is the secrets to success? I am certainly not an “authority” on success, but I do have some strong beliefs. For many, the benefits of success are illusive. These people struggle, search and try year after year to create a life filled with financial security, nurturing relationships and a sense of purpose and meaning.

Others appear to effortlessly achieve greatness, independence and happiness as they travel through the days of their lives.

What is the difference between these two groups? Is it luck, a favorable early environment, good fortune, the right contacts, hard work, a powerful will to succeed or some other measurable quality? I do not claim to have an answer or the answer to your quest. I do not know the secrets, if there are any secrets to success. I have learned, however that there are certain attitudes, actions, beliefs and philosophies that when embraced and followed, ultimately lead to the higher ground.

I believe there are fifteen most common characteristics of successful people – regardless of age, sex, position, status or however you choose to define success.

I do not believe that success hinges on any single one of the qualities Listed or those that have been excluded. Success is not guaranteed to every human who walks the planet. However, the potential for success is bequeathed to each of us. It is not an accident of the result of believing that life owes you success.

Success in not: power, fame, wealth, prosperity or independence. Once gained, there is no guarantee that the success you have achieved will be maintained in any recognizable of anticipated form. If success is lost, it is not destined to elude us forever.

Life offers no guarantees – just choices; No certainty...but consequences; No predictable outcomes – just the privilege of pursuit. People who succeed and fail come in all shapes, sizes, colors, ages, nationalities and sex. In the end, success in NOT what we achieve or accumulate, but who we have become. Successful people succeed because they do the things necessary for success. Failures want the same results but refuse or fail to do the things necessary to achieve the success they say they want.

Many people, when attempting to excuse themselves from the personal responsibility of a successful life, do so by blaming others, their background or circumstances. Life is a neutral concept. It responds to a person’s beliefs, commitments, expectations, effort and actions. It gives us what we unconsciously desire and ask for. Life is not selective. It doesn’t pick on some people while showering others with innumerable benefits or gifts.

It’s a perfect example of cause and effect in the ebb and flow of life.

Life is not fair. It is not unfair either. It just is.

In the end, people who want to succeed, do. Their success however may not resemble their early picture of what they thought their success should look like. People who fail want to fail. Oh, they may say they want success and its trappings, but in reality they do not believe in their hearts that they deserve it or will ever achieve it. They do not believe in themselves. They are not willing to give what it takes...positive thinking, hard work, management skills and the list goes on and on. We are all magnets. We attract into our experience that which is consistent with our inner beliefs, values, expectations and desires.
